Preface

When I made the decision to compile this genealogical history of the descendants of my great grandparents, Samuel and Magdalena Grossen Wyss, I did not know a living person in the Wyss family outside of those who were also in the Garman family by virtue of the happy coincidence that my grandmother, Rosina Wyss, married my grandfather, Samuel Garman. I had just completed a family history booklet on the descendants of Samuel and Rosina, and during the research process relative to that work I received two extraneous documents:

1. A 1973 newspaper obituary clipping announcing the death of Walter E. Wyss, sent to me by my cousins, Howard and Rolene Garman, of Coldwater, Michigan.

2. A ten-page mimeographed write-up entitled, "The Wyss Family History, 21st Wyss Reunion, Sept. 10, 1950, Dedicated to S.L. Sturgeon." My cousin, Dorothy Parker Chapman, sent this to me.

On April 23, 1977, I wrote a letter to Mrs. Walter E. Wyss, at the address shown in the obituary, telling her my plans to write this book, and asking her for some leads on names and addresses of descendants of the eleven children of Samuel and Magdalena Grossen Wyss (really, ten children, since I already had the information on Rosina's descendants). Mrs. Wyss kindly replied and did give me some leads which I followed up. One lead led to another, and those together with information gleaned from correspondence with people whose names I found in a quickly-accumulated collection of northeastern Ohio telephone directories, got me off to a good start. I had, in the meantime, started to use the very good services of a professional genealogist, Carol Willsey Flavell, of Youngstown, Ohio. Mrs. Flavell gave me copious quantities of data which she obtained from cemetery tombstones, birth, marriage and death records, and her library of books containing Ohio genealogical history. She also searched census records and consulted other sources.

Not far into the project I began writing letters to people by the name of "Oesch." Immediately, I received several copies of a booklet entitled, "The Oesch Story." This was a mixed blessing. The good news was that I had a ready-made, chart-style source of information regarding a large branch of the Wyss family, enabling me to direct my research activities in a controlled fashion (as opposed to the more random style I had been forced to use up to that point -- and after that point with respect to the rest of the Wyss family). The bad news was that almost everyone named Oesch was prolific. I found that I had bitten off a bite that was going to be very difficult to chew, in that there were more people in the Oesch branch of the family than I had dreamed possible.

It was not long before I had set up a completely separate file and control book for the Oesch section of the family.

Most of the information in this book, however, has been obtained by direct communication with people representing individual segments of the family. One person would give me the names and addresses of his/her close relatives, and I would write to them and get information on their families, and names and addresses of other relatives, and the process continued in this manner.

Overall the percentage of responses to letters sent out was only fair, so the procedure required following two or more leads, in many instances, to track down a single branch of the family (or a branch of a branch). Frequently, telephone calls were necessary in order to keep the entire project from bogging down.

An explanation should be made of some of the principles used in the listings in this book:

1. Every descendant is listed in the "children" tabulation under his/her parents' names. Only if he/she has been married prior to the time of publication does the descendant have his/her own family listing.

2. The method by which adopted children would be listed presented a problem. After considerable thought we decided to give a "courtesy" listing for an adopted child under his/her parents' names in the children's tabulation. However, there is no subsequent listing (such as his/her own family listing) for an adopted child.

3. Stepchildren generally are not listed at all unless I was informed of their adoption by a blood family member, in which case such stepchild is given a "courtesy" listing as an adopted child. I have not been entirely consistent in this policy, and occasionally I have given a "courtesy" listing to a stepchild who has not been adopted.

4. At the beginning of each family listing the name of the Wyss family member is underlined.

5. Some place names are missing. A very few dates are missing. These omissions, in most cases, are the result of my having tried diligently to get the information, but without success, and having decided ultimately that it was better to get the book into publication rather than waste an inordinate amount of time attempting to attain perfection.

6. I have used a generation numbering system that describes my great great grandfather, Andreas Wyss, as being the first generation (I), my great grandfather, Samuel Wyss, as being the second generation (II), etc., as follows:

I. Andreas Wyss (born approximately 1780), my great great grandfather.
II. Samuel Wyss (born 1819), my great grandfather.
III. Rosina Wyss (born 1843), my grandmother.
IV. Leo Hubert Garman (born 1891), my father.
V. Leo Hubert Garman (born 1924).
VI. John Royer Garman (born 1944), my son.
VII. Janet Royer Garman (born 1972), my granddaughter.

These generation numbers have been assigned in this fashion in order to correspond with other genealogical compilations that I have written and intend to write.

7. Dates are expressed numerically: month, day, year.

For example, 3/10/1824 is March 10, 1824. The year is expressed in full for dates prior to the twentieth century. For the twentieth century, only the last two digits of the year are shown. Example: 3/10/24 is March 10, 1924.

8. The index is entitled, "Index of Persons Entering the Family by Marriage." The advantage of this type of index is that it eliminates the necessity of listing many people named Wyss, Garman, Oesch, Althouse, etc. The disadvantage is that a person cannot be looked up directly, in most cases. However, all that is necessary is to know the name of the spouse or parent who married into the family, and the subject family member can be located quickly.

For example, to find the listing of John Royer Garman, one cannot locate it under "Garman." However, by knowing that his mother's name was Royer or that his wife's name is Hallmark, one can find his entry quickly (Royer, page 48; Hallmark, page 51).

Although the title of the index does not so indicate, the index also includes names of persons "entering the family" other than by marriage. Three other categories are included in the index:

(a) A parent of an illegitimate child.

(b) The name of a family member which has been changed by adoption.

(c) The name of a stepchild when such a stepchild has been listed.

9. There is a point regarding the format that should be explained. The following words appear after each listing of a spouse:

Born:

Died:

The appropriate dates follow "Born" and "Died", if applicable. However, even if the person is still alive, the word, "Died," still appears, and therefore should not be taken as an indication that the person actually has died. Only if a date or a question mark appears opposite the word, "Died," should it be assumed that the person has died.

On the other had, if the word, "Divorced:" appears following the name of a spouse, it means that there has been a divorce, even if a date doesn't follow.

Finally, I apologize for errors. This apology applies particularly to dates, where I encountered a surprising number of discrepancies between data obtained from official records and data obtained from members of the family. In each case I used judgment -- and judgment always leads to errors.

Introduction

Samuel Wyss was born in Boltigen, Switzerland, on January 15, 1819. Magdalena Grossen was born January 15, 1821, in Frutigen, Switzerland. They were married in Boltigen, Switzerland, on May 20, 1843.

My father always said that his mother (Rosina Wyss, the oldest child of Samuel and Magdalena) came to America with her family when she was 16 years old. Rosina was born September 12, 1843, so I concluded that the immigration to America took place in 1859. However, there seems to be a little confusion on this point.

In the Preface I mentioned a write-up entitled, "The Wyss Family History, 21st Reunion, Sept. 10, 1950." This was compiled by V. J. Frederick and Mildred Liston, of Columbiana, Ohio. I have used a significant amount of information contained in that paper. Here is what it says about the immigration:

"They left their beloved Switzerland in 1861, going by train to Havre, France, from whence they embarked for America. They crossed the ocean on a sailing vessel that required 32 days to make the journey, landing after a stormy and strenuous voyage at New York City. Their destination was Beloit, Ohio, then known as Smithville Station, and were met on arrival by Jacob Zurbrugg. Their first trip on an American railway was interrupted by an experience of much disappointment and much trouble and expense. Instead of stopping at their intended destination, the conductor on their train, through mistake, understood they were bound for Smithfield, Ohio, and brought them to Alliance and transferred them to a train for East Liverpool, where the mistake was discovered. With much chagrin they returned to Beloit, or Smithville Station, and were taken to the home of John and Susan Zeller (Zellar?), an uncle and aunt living one-half mile west of North Georgetown, on the Laurtes Stoffer farm."

I have received a somewhat different version of the same story in a July 18, 1977 letter from V. Ralph F. Burson, from which I quote:

"Uncle Sam Wyss came from Switzerland about a year before the family came. He came to Alliance or Beloit, Ohio, which were the railroad depots for North Georgetown, Ohio. About a year later he sent for the family. Their sailing ship was becalmed, and they were on the Atlantic over seventy days. At last they reached New York. Someone made a mistake, and the railroad took them to Beloit, Wisconsin. So, here it was, the father meeting the train at Beloit, Ohio, and no family, and the family at Beloit, Wisconsin, and no father. The railroad sent them back to Cleveland, Ohio. They arrived in Cleveland during an evening and found there would be no train to Alliance until the next morning. So, the family waited in the waiting room all night. It rained hard all night, and the roof leaked, and the children cried. Aunt Rose (Rosina) was 16, and she said that was the low point of their trip."

It would seem reasonable to conclude that there was some serious train trouble on a trip that took place either in 1859, 1860, or 1861. Otherwise the facts are cloudy.

My father told me that his mother, Rosina, came to the United States when she was 16 years old; this agrees with Mr. Burson's account, so I tend to conclude that the immigration journey occurred in 1859.

According to "The Wyss Family History" Samuel Wyss was engaged in farming all of his active life, and retired on a small farm near North Georgetown. He and Magdalena spent all of their "American" life in Columbiana County, Ohio. Magdalena died May 24, 1894, and Samuel died May 20, 1904. They had eleven children, of whom eight were born in Switzerland and three in the United States. Two died in childhood.

Samuel's parents were Andreas Wyss and Magdalena Eschler. Andreas was from Boltigen, and Magdalena from Simmenthal. It appears to be quite clear that Andreas was a peasant.

Apparently during his earlier years in Switzerland Samuel Wyss was also a peasant. He and Magdalena lived in Eschi, a very small village perched on the side of a mountain above Boltigen. This Eschi should not be confused with the much larger town of Aeschi which is situated nearer Lake Thun. I visited Eschi in 1960. It is a very small, primitive village. In 1960 it appeared to me that the village had not changed much since 1860, and I could completely understand the motivation which drove my great-grandparents to get out; anything would be better!

The parents of Magdalena Grossen Wyss were Christian Grossen and Benedicta Aegerter, both of Frutigen (although Benedicta may have been from Oberevil). Christian was a school teacher. He and Benedicta had eight children, six of whom died single. Magdalena, of course, was one of the two who married. The other was her younger brother, Johannes Grossen, born 1825, who married Magdalena Zeller (Zellar?).

The school teacher, Christian Grossen, mentioned in the preceding paragraph, was in turn a son of Christian (Christen) Grossen and Johanna Sarbach, both of Frutigen.

Acknowledgments

Most of the information in this book was compiled from data furnished by members of the Wyss family. To give proper acknowledgment for this assistance it would be necessary to list hundreds of names -- which is not practical. Suffice to say that the publisher is very grateful to all members of the Wyss family who furnished the genealogical data that made the publication of this book possible.

Nevertheless it is appropriate that some specific acknowledgments be made:

Carol Willsey Flavell, for her professional genealogical assistance.

Susan Hallmark Garman, for the design of the cover and title pages.

Mary T. Hojnacki, for typing the text.
